Published in:

Daily Alta California (San Francisco) 2:159 (17 May 1851): n.p. (second page of issue).

H. W. BRADLEY, Daguerrean Artist, has re-opened his Gallery of colored Daguerreotypes, over the Jewelry store of Messrs. Jacks & Blake, in Clay street, opposite the Post Office, and is prepared to take the finest pictures ever offered to this public.

A suitable reward will be given for the recovery of a large black leather trunk saved from the fire, and taken away through mistake. It contains effects of no value except to myself; it has the name of Doctor Prunlow on the inside.

EDITOR'S NOTES:

This is Bradley's first advertisement in this publication after the 4 May 1851 fire which destroyed his gallery located on Montgomery street between Washington and Clay.

Additional information regarding Bradley is found in Peter E. Palmquist and Thomas R. Kailbourn, Pioneer Photographers of the Far West: A Biographical Dictionary, 1840-1865 (Stanford: Stanford University Press, 2000): 115–18.
